Comfortable Surroundings

Although it is less than two years old, The Learning Center at Temple University Health System Corporate Office is already drawing rave reviews and repeat reservations.

The 20,000 sq. ft. space can easily accommodate up to 400 people in the grand meeting room, as well as smaller groups in private boardrooms or classrooms.

Convenient Service

From food to audio/video needs to those inevitable last-minute photocopies, there are numerous details for every meeting. Let The Learning Center staff help you make the arrangements for a stress-free event.

The Learning Center's staff of planning professionals will ensure that your room is set up to your specifications. Our team can also arrange catering through our hospitality team and full-service eatery, and take care of your audio/visual needs. Our IKON Business Center can manage your last minute copying needs.

Quality Amenities

From our large meeting room to our most intimate classroom, every area within The Learning Center is Internet-ready and stocked with the latest in presentation projection equipment. And computer compatibility issues are easily remedied in advance of your meeting so nothing is left to chance.

One of a Kind Location

The Learning Center, an ADA compliant landmark location, is located at 2450 West Hunting Park Avenue in Philadelphia and easily accessible from I-76, Roosevelt Boulevard, I-95, Pennsylvania Turnpike, Broad Street, and Kelly Drive.

Part of the Temple University Health System Corporate Office, The Learning Center is located within the historic Budd Company Complex, which had been home to one of Philadelphia's largest manufacturers.

It was here that the Budd Company built the first all-steel automobile body and the first stainless-steel passenger railroad car.

Today, this completely renovated corporate center provides a beautiful historic backdrop for your meetings, as well as a dedicated parking area in a secure setting.
